Dave And The Candycorns

One day in a little house lived Dave, he was a very Friendly Monster. Dave had a little sister named Penelope. He was getting really excited, because it was Halloween the next day! Dave was so excited to wear his costume. He was being a skeleton! He was especially happy about his costume because it glowed in the dark! Dave even asked to go to bed early because he just couldn't wait. So then he quickly ate his dinner and then went to bed. In the morning he jumped out of bed with excitement! He put on his skeleton costume packed his lunch and was out the door in a flash. When he got to school everyone was acting strange, he assumed that it was because it was Halloween. Then when he got into his class room there was a pile of candy corns on his desk.

He thought to him self “why is there a pile of candy corns on my desk”? Anyway, Dave put the candy corns in his pocket and then before he knew it, it was time for recess.

When Dave got outside he went in a spot where no one was and popped a candy corn in his mouth. Then he heard a noise from inside his mouth it was saying “don’t eat me!” so he spit the candy corns out and Dave said “sorry” and the candy corn said “that’s okay”. Dave jumped when he heard that. He thought that he was hallucinating! And then the bell rang to go inside. So Dave put them back inside his pocket. When they got inside they did a math test. Dave could not believe that the teachers would do a math test on Halloween! But by the time it was over, it was time for the Halloween dance. Dave loved dancing so much! Then they went back up to their classroom, got their backpacks and then the bell rang to go home. Almost all the kids were out in a flash! Including Dave. On his way home he stopped at a store with really tiny Halloween costumes. Dave bought matching skeleton costumes for the Candy corns. When Dave got home he grabbed a bag for Trick or treating and was out the door! The first house they went to they got a butt load of candy! On the second house not so much. And it went in a pattern a lot and then not a lot and then he decided that it was time to go home. He took the shortcut but he knew that way was really scary but he went anyways. As soon as Dave stepped in to the forest he could hear wolves howling and animals growling. And then he said "run!" to himself. But then he ran into a giant spider web and fell down with the candy corns on his shoulder! When he was on the ground he spotted a wand, picked it up flailed it around in the air and something moved, he got so scared that he buried it and put a rock on top of it, then ran back to his house, ate some candy and then fell asleep and hoped it was all a dream.

THE END.
